Company Secretary

Companies House Compliance

UK private companies limited by shares are not required to have a company secretary. However, the director(s) are legally responsible for ensuring that the compliance requirements are met and failure to do so is a personal legal liability.

Elemental acts on behalf of law firms, international clients and clients that lack dedicated company secretarial resources internally to offer a fixed fee solution.

Annual Compliance Service (ACS)

For a fixed annual fee:

- We will ensure your minimum regulatory requirements are met: preparing and filing the Confirmation Statement, providing a registered email address and monitoring of Companies House emails by a company secretary, and maintaining all the main statutory registers in electronic form such as the register of directors and shareholders.
- We also include support throughout the year such as fraud monitoring, accounts deadline reminders and acting as named Company Secretary at Companies House (if desired).
- In addition, the directors will always have access to a point of contact for company secretarial queries.

We maintain client records using Diligent, the UK market leader. As company secretarial specialists we can offer this service to our clients at a fraction of the cost of purchasing an individual license.

- (Recommended) I would like Elemental to ensure my compliance requirements are met with ACS
- Or, I have alternative arrangements in place to ensure the directors' responsibilities are met

Registered Email Address

Every company must provide a registered email address for Companies House correspondence. Please choose from one of the following:

(Recommended) I have selected ACS and would like Elemental to receive, monitor and provide advice on Companies House emails (included in ACS fee)

Or, I do not require ACS but would like to use Elemental's email address (fee applies)

People with Significant Control

All UK companies and Limited Liability Partnerships (LLP) are required to maintain a register of people with significant control (PSC).

A person with significant control over the company is defined as an individual who (either alone or as one of a number of joint holders of the share or rights in question) meets one or more of the following conditions:

- an individual who holds, directly or indirectly, more than 25% of the shares in the company;
- an individual who holds, directly or indirectly, more than 25% of the voting rights in the company;
- an individual who holds the right, directly or indirectly, to appoint or remove a majority of the board of directors of the company;
- an individual who has the right to exercise, or actually exercises, significant influence or control over the company; and
- a trust or firm (without legal personality) that meets any of the above conditions and an individual who has the right to exercise, or actually exercises, significant influence or control over the activities of that trust or firm.

Further statutory and non-statutory guidance exists as to the meaning of these tests. Please get in touch if you would like more information.

If a UK company (or a company listed on a relevant market) meets any of these conditions and is the first in the ownership chain, then they will be a Registrable Relevant Legal Entity (RRLE) and their details will need to be provided.

Please confirm whether the company will have any PSCs or RRLE's and, if so, please provide their details.
There is no PSC in relation to the company	<input type="checkbox"/>
There are individual PSCs as further set out below	<input type="checkbox"/>
There are RRLEs	<input type="checkbox"/>
Or, I would like further advice from Elemental	<input type="checkbox"/>

Specific information, referred to as "required particulars" in the PSC legislation, must be shown in a PSC register for each individual who is a PSC, as well as for any legal entity (such as a company or a LLP) that is a 'registrable legal entity' in relation to your company and certain prescribed bodies.

Please note that in exceptional circumstances it is possible to suppress information relating to PSCs, or prevent a PSC's residential address from being shared with credit reference agencies. Here, exceptional circumstances mean a serious risk of violence or intimidation. If you think this may apply, please get in touch with us.

If any of the PSCs are also directors, please simply insert their names and their ownership interest as we already hold their required information.
